

Hint

To model division using an array, remember to arrange the objects in rows and columns. The divisor will be the number of rows needed. The quotient will be the number of columns needed. If you can't fit all of the objects evenly among the rows/columns, it's okay to display the extras in the last column. That will be the remainder.