

Net income is the total amount of money a person or company receives after deductions or allowances are taken out. This is also referred to as take home pay.