

Hint

In this problem, students are given a pictorial model (the graph) that represents the percentage of students who chose certain types of movies. They are also provided the whole, which is the 200 students. In order to solve this problem, students will need to use the whole and the percentages referenced in order to determine the number of students as a solution.